

A. F. of L. Union Shows
How to Undermine Reciprocity Tariff

WASHINGTON — The much-vaunted reciprocity trade treaties, upon which Cordell Hull has set his heart, are in danger of being completely undermined.

An illustration of how easy it is to undermine them has just been given by the Chilean Government. That country has orders from American brewers for Chilean malt. The orders are ready to be shipped, but there is one drawback. The International Brewery Workers of the A. F. of L. refuse to handle the malt.

They require certification that Chilean malt is made by unionized labor.

The Chilean Embassy has cited reports made by Miss Perkins' Labor Department showing that Chilean malt workers belong to a union far older than that in the U. S. A. But the brewery workers here will not yield.

The same is true regarding Czechoslovakian beer barrel staves and Yugoslavian malt.

In other words, Secretary Hull could give various countries various concessions on importation of its products here, but organized labor could completely nullify his concessions.

The State Department has repeatedly protested to the International Brewery Workers without results. Apparently they are more powerful than Secretary Hull.

Just A Chance

Bulky "Tom-tom" Hefflin, whose fever-heat Ku Klux Klan cost him a Senate seat four years ago, has been scouring Washington for a job.

When the flamboyantly-attired Alabama first appeared in the capital, he was very mysterious about his mission. But after a week he made no secret of it.

A friend, meeting him, asked straight-out: "Tom, are you looking for a job?"

"Well, I'll tell you," Hefflin replied. "It's this way. It's like the story they tell about an old Tennessee."

"He had been in Congress for a number of years. But finally the folks retired him. One day he got a telegram from President Cleveland, whom he knew quite well, asking him if he would accept a postmastership."

"The old-timer wired right back, 'Mr. President, just offer me the chance.'"

Sensational Coup

Ambitious Governor Gifford Pinchot lost his fight for Pennsylvania's Republican Senatorial nomination, but he is far from out as a guerilla warrior.

Friends are whispering the exciting news that the grizzled old battler is planning a sensational coup.

At the psychological moment, he is to declare for hard-hitting Joseph P. Guffey, good friend of President Roosevelt, and the Democratic Senatorial candidate.

Pinchot is determined to leave no stone unturned to defeat Senator David Reed, Mellon-allied Old Guard, and Pinchot's inveterate foe.

Reed, running on an outright anti-New Deal platform, trounced Pinchot by a margin of 100,000. For rock-ribbed Republican Pennsylvania this is a narrow squeeze.

Higher Jinx

Gravest problem of the U. S. Navy at present is not the 1935 naval conference, but how to break the fishing jinx aboard the U. S. S. Sequoia, White House yacht being used by Navy Secretary Swanson for the summer.

Swanson, being a dyed-in-the-wool angler, decided to do President Roosevelt the service of killing the jinx while the Chief Executive is on his Hawaiian trip. For three consecutive week-ends he and a small party journeyed down the Potomac to famous fishing grounds.

Fishing in Chesapeake Bay is better this year than at any time in the last three decades. All around the Sequoia, fish were being pulled in until fishermen were all but prostrated. But aboard the Sequoia

2 DEATHS
STUDIED
BY JURY

Harold Southworth, Lester Coey, Death-car Drivers, Held in Jail

WITNESSES HEARD
Transfer of Auto Figures in Gatwood Death

Grand jury action on the weekend's two fatal traffic accidents was expected today, and in the meantime, the drivers of the "death-dealing" autos were held in the county jail pending the investigation.

Prosecutor Ray W. Davis will have witnesses unfold the events leading up to the tragic happenings to the grand jurors today as they meet for a two-day session to study several important cases.

Harold Southworth, 26, Detroit auto salesman, and Lester Coey, 23, Ross-co farm laborer, drivers of the autos figuring in the wrecks, are in the county jail awaiting the grand jury's action.

Coey was arrested Monday afternoon, following a preliminary hearing conducted by Prosecutor Davis in the sheriff's office.

TWO MEN KILLED

Southworth's car, Saturday night struck the ladder-wagon on which Yonel Seaff, 51, farm laborer, was riding, causing the latter's death, and Coey was driving the car which hit the Omar Baking Co. truck at an intersection at Whistler Saturday afternoon, resulting in the death of the truck driver, Allen Gatwood, 20, of Hallsville.

At the prosecutor's hearing Monday afternoon, it was learned that Coey was driving a Dodge coupe supposedly belonging to Matthew Gilpin, Chillicothe R. F. D. 6, his employer, who accompanied him, but investigation revealed that the car had been transferred before hand to two other persons and a bill of sale had never been filed in the clerk of court's office.

Gilpin said he secured the auto from Herbert Haddox of Williamsport. The latter delivered him no bill of sale, Gilpin testified. It was also learned that the license plates on the Dodge car belonged to a Ford formerly owned by Haddox.

NEEDED SALE BILL

When questioned, Haddox said that he had never received a bill of sale from Russell Kneese, who sold him the car in January. Kneese said that when he sold the car to Haddox, he was of the opinion that the latter planned to "junk" it and did not believe a bill of sale was necessary.

Since he was the last person to receive a bill of sale for the car, Kneese is the rightful owner, it was shown.

Haddox and Kneese have been ordered to straighten out the bill of sale matter and report for another hearing at 2 p. m. Saturday. Concerning the wreck, Coey testified that he stopped his car as he approached the intersection and when he moved out into the road he saw the truck coming at him. He declared that Gatwood, driver of the baking truck, was going "at least 60 miles per hour." No warning was sounded, Coey said.

Gilpin, who accompanied Coey substantiated the testimony of the latter.

Besides Prosecutor Davis, Coroner C. E. Bowers and Deputy Sheriffs Brvan Custer and Miller Fissell, who investigated the wreck, took part in yesterday's hearing.

With several important cases confronting it the grand jury convened this morning and was to continue its sessions through Tuesday and Wednesday.

Besides the investigation of two fatal week-end traffic accidents, the jurors were to also study the charges against three men being held in the county jail charged with four Ashville robberies, and investigate a charge of selling liquor to minors, which was filed against Earl Stout, this city, by Mrs. Pearl Adkins, E. Main-st.

The estate is estimated to be worth $1,200.

Written July 27, 1928, the will was witnessed by Charles H. May and Percy May. Nancy Dick has been named executrix, and William Mitchell, Percy May and J. H. McQuay have been appointed appraisers.

Charles H. May is attorney for the estate.

School Man Succeeds Dowdy In Charge of 4-H Club, School Exhibits.

George D. McDowell, N. Scioto-st., who becomes superintendent of county schools August 1, has been named director of Department No. 5 of the Pumpkin show society succeeding Guy Dowdy, who has left his farm bureau job to work for the government.

Mr. McDowell's department is in charge of 4-H club work and school exhibit.

The show society has decided to establish a Boy Scout section under Department No. 5 with a chairman to be announced later. Under plans of the society and Central Ohio Area council, Columbus, the section will become one of the features of the annual show.

All directors reported progress and Mack Parrett, Jr. informed the officers that more concessionaries are asking space this year than at any time in the last several years.

FISH KILLED,
TEST WATER

State Seeking to Determine Cause of Death; Pheasants Distributed.

The result of a test of the water of Darby creek to determine what is killing fish, especially suckers, in that stream was expected to be forwarded to Clarence Francis, county game protector, this week.

L. S. Roach, of the state department of conservation, came here to test the Darby water to learn the source of trouble. Many dead fish have been found in the stream from its mouth to probably a mile up its course.

The Pickaway-co Farmers and Sportsmen's association, working with Game Protector Francis, finished distribution of 310 pheasants from the Urbana game preserve today. The birds were sent into 12 townships of the county.

STRIKE SPREADS
INTO NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 17.—The contagion of San Francisco's general strike spread to New York waterfront today.

While steamship owners prepared to go into session to consider the independent demands of New York maritime groups for higher wages and shorter hours, the American Radio Telegraphers union ordered its operators on vessels arriving from the Pacific coast to quit their keys.

Three operators of the Grace liner Santa Paula, fresh from the coast where it was charged, strike breaking longshoremen had handled its cargo, were the first to walk ashore under the strike order.

NEW GAS RATE OFFER TO BE MADE TO CITY

Universal Pipe Line Co. Officers to be at Council Wednesday

MAYOR HAS NOTICE

Offer Made in Chillicothe Monday Evening

Council at its meeting Wednesday evening will be offered a new gas rate of 45 cents per 1,000 cubic feet by representatives of the Universal Pipe Line Co., of Canton, it was learned today.

Representatives of the company have conferred with Mayor W. B. Cady and will be here tomorrow night to present their proposition to the council.

The new company, according to the mayor, is about ready to make a contract with the city of Portsmouth, where a gas rate of 30 cents per 1,000 cubic feet has been offered.

If its own distributing system is to be used, the mayor said he has been informed, the company will charge a rate of 45 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Since Circleville has no distributing system, it is expected the latter rate will be offered.

NO NEGOTIATING

Circleville at present is paying The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. $1 for the first 500 cubic feet, and 60 cents per 1,000 cu. ft. for all over, or an average rate of 73 cents. City council passed a gas ordinance sometime ago, but when a protest was filed by the Citizens League, the gas company withdrew its offer, which it claimed was lower.

Negotiations between the gas company and city council ceased at that time.

Mayor Cady said today that John S. Burke, engineer of the Universal Pipe Line Co. will be here to present his company's offer to council. It is also probable that the city manager and attorney for the city of Portsmouth will also be present, as it is said that they have made an investigation of the new company's status.

The Universal Pipe Line Co. is headed by H. A. Phipps, who was the attorney in the Taft administration of the Philippines. Phipps is expected to attend the meeting.

DAVID PROMOTER

Simon David, prominent Jackson merchant, and son-in-law of Mrs. Germain Joseph, N. Scioto-st., is one of the company's promoters. Portsmouth, it is understood, is regarded as a key city in a tie-up of southern Ohio cities on a line which would run from West Virginia to consumers reportedly already under contract in the northern part of the state.

COUNTY IS FINED
FOR DRUNK DRIVING

B. H. Crawford, Circleville R. F. D. 2, was in the Ross-co jail Tuesday to begin serving out a fine of $100 and costs, imposed upon him in Squire Hickey's court in Chillicothe Monday on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Crawford was arrested Sunday afternoon by State Highway Patrolman F. J. Crume. His driving rights were also suspended for six months. Because the car bore license plates issued to another man, the state highway patrol procured a court order to hold the car until an investigation could be made.

BOY, 2, FOUND

HARTSDALE, N. Y., July 17.—Alive in the woods, where he had apparently survived almost unharmed for five days and nights, 21-months-old Bobby Connor was found today near his home here.

The baby, according to first reports, was not seriously affected by his almost unbelievable experience.

Money Would Put 100 To Work on Airport; Resolutions In Mail

Relief work will be resumed in Pickaway-co as soon as the state relief commission approves an appropriation of $1,200 for the remainder of July, requested by the county commissioners at their meeting Monday.

The money will be used to put 100 men to work on Circleville's new airport which is being constructed on the Rev. Sam C. Elsen property, northwest of the city.

A resolution requesting the appropriation has been forwarded to the relief commission, along with several other resolutions passed by the "dads" Monday.

GET RECORD CORRECT

So that they might have a clean record in starting on their new relief program with Howard Irwin as director, the commissioners passed a resolution asking the state relief commission to approve the monthly relief budgets beginning in December, 1933, and extending through June of this year. It was explained that the budgets were always handled through the county relief director's office and the commissioners had never seen them.

The total amount of the budgets, the money which has already been used, is $6,318.17. The action was Continued on Page Three

ONION STRIKERS
FACING EVICTION

KENTON, July 17.—Families of 75 of the 400 striking union weedeaters in the Scioto marshlands today were threatened with eviction proceedings to oust them from the tenant-residences owned by the major onion growers.

Anxious to have a "showdown" with the strikers before the harvesting season actually starts, spokesmen for the operators announced they had retained an attorney to file the eviction suits.

Families of the strikers have been occupying the tenant homes since the men folk walked out on strike about 29 days ago.

Major growers claimed since the start of the strike that the wage demands of the strikers were excessive because they were furnished with houses and small plots of ground for gardens.

Five Soldiers Killed by Shell; Six Die in Trolley Crash; Three Are Shot

MAISON LAFFITTE, France, July 17.—Five soldiers were killed and twenty injured in a terrific explosion today at the military field near here when two soldiers decided to play football with a shell lying on the ground and kicked the percussion cap.

MONTREAL, July 17.—Six persons were killed and thirteen injured when a trolley car and a truck collided here early today.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, July 17.—Three workers were killed and 18 were wounded when police fired on a meeting of sugar-mill strikers near Medialuna in the Manzanillo district it was reported here today. Recurrent clashes between workers and police in southeastern Cuba have left a tense situation.

TOLEDO DAIRY

Blonde Not Involved in $18,000 Holdup; Caught in Michigan

TWO BANDITS SHOT

Farmers - Possemen Help State Police Force

MONROE, Mich., July 17.—A blonde woman and three men were captured by farmer deputies and state police early today as they attempted to reach a Chicago sanctuary after robbing a Toledo dairy of $18,000.

Since noon yesterday the deputies armed with shot guns had patrolled roads leading from the Ohio border. At midnight they were about to abandon their search when the lights of a speeding car were sighted on a little used highway about 14 miles west of Monroe.

Swinging their cars the officers halted the small car. As they walked over to it, a man and woman occupying the front seat got out hands in the air. Deputy Walter Consteller went to the rear of the coupe and pulled open the luggage compartment. As he focused his flash lamp two revolvers were shoved in his face. He stepped back dropping the compartment cover and emptied two barrels of buck shot into the back of the car.

ALL IDENTIFIED

At Monroe co-jail the captives were identified as Carl Lewis, 30, of 5553 Wilson avenue, Chicago; Arnold Perry, 31, of the Jarvis apartment, Fourteenth and Jackson streets, Toledo; Sam Kaufman, 25, of 4650 Sheridan road, Chicago, and his wife, Ester, 23.

Lewis was treated for gunshot wounds of the shoulder inflicted by the deputy's buckshot. Kaufman had a minor head wound received during the holdup of the Page Dairy company, when Henry Page, a company official followed the bandits into the street and emptied a shot gun at them.

On the men and in the car police found four .38 caliber pistols in a bag containing $2,900 in cash and a bank deposit slip filled out by the dairy company for slightly more than $3,000.

ADMIT HOLDUP

The men readily admitted the holdup, according to Deputy Albert Voss, but refused to waive extradition. Mrs. Kaufman, blonde and statusque and pretty did not participate in the robbery.

COURT TEST SEEN IN NUDIST ARRESTS

Delaware-Co Prosecutor Files Contributory Charges Against Group.

DELAWARE, July 17.—Ohio's first court test over the practice of nudism, which has precipitated legal battles in a number of other states, was in the preliminary stages here today.

Prosecutor Lawrence Kellar last night charged eight members of the Health Seekers Club, nudist organization whose members were arrested in a raid near here, with "having acted in a way tending to contribute toward the delinquency of minors."

Kellar then turned his attention to uncovering some statutes which would have bearing on the situation. The only one he could find, Kellar said, was that of indecent exposure.

The charge of contributing toward delinquency is based upon the presence of two naked children among the group arrested at the camp. The penalty is a fine of $10 to $1,000 and imprisonment of 10 days to one year, or both.

Fifteen members of the club escaped. Jasper Adams, 34, of Columbus, said to have been a former chemistry instructor in an Ohio university, claimed the club has a membership of 36 and that he is the leader.

OHIOAN HONORED

CLEVELAND, July 17.—Henry C. Wolfe, Coshocton, O., lecturer and writer on international affairs, today was one of the few foreigners ever to be decorated with the Order of the Crown of Roumania. The award, the highest civil or military honor Roumania bestows, was presented to Wolfe yesterday by George Anagostache, vice consul at the Roumanian royal consulate here "in recognition of his interpretations of the viewpoints of Roumania and the little entente to the American public."

Faces Difficulty

Frank M. Merriam

Governor Merriam, of California, is facing one of the most tense situations in the nation with the large cities of his state under rigid strike regulations. Pressure is being brought to bear on the governor to replace civil government with martial law to cope with expected disorders.

Merriam recently became governor upon the death of Governor Rolfe.

APPEAL OF M-G-M

OVERRULED TODAY

Verdict of $126,000 In Favor of Russian Princess Stands.

LONDON, July 17.—The court of appeals today dismissed the appeal of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures, Ltd., against the verdict of 25,000 pounds, or about $126,000, awarded by a jury to Princess Irina Youssouff.

Princess Youssouff, a niece of the late Czar of Russia, charged she had been damaged by the film "Rasputin, The Mad Monk," which portrayed scenes purporting to depict incidents in the life of the sinister monk who exercised great influence in Russian court circles near the close of the Czarist regime.

The film company attacked the verdict on the ground that the jury erred in deciding Princess Youssouff had been libelled by the film. The damages awarded also were attacked as excessive.

TROOPS READY FOR DISORDERS

California Guardsmen Equipped With All Weapons of Modern Warfare.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 17.—California's national guard was equipped today with weapons of modern warfare, with the exception of heavier types of artillery.

In patrolling the San Francisco strike district, it was reported by militia headquarters here.

Guardsmen were provided with a deadly array of machine guns, gas, grenades, rifles, sidearms and tanks. Artillerymen, armed only with sidearms, will be used primarily for aiding local police in handling disturbances, with other forces armed as infantrymen and equipped with rifles and bayonets.

A total of 6,464 officers and men was shown in national guard records.

It was estimated that 3,966 militiamen and men from the 250th coast artillery, 185th infantry, 150th infantry, 143rd field artillery, 40th division tank corps and 184th infantry were on duty in the San Francisco district.

New arrivals to the strike zone included the 160th infantry of 1098.

SHOCK BLAMED FOR DEATH OF CHRISTY

While funeral services were being held at the Dutch Hollow church, near Amanda, this afternoon for Emmett Christie, 33, who was believed to have died mysteriously in the basement of the Hocking Glass Co. plant in Lancaster Sunday night, Dr. Clark Axline, the company physician, announced that the man had died from electric shock.

The first theory advanced relative to Christie's death was that he had fallen against a short-circuited electric fan and was electrocuted. Dr. Axline first doubted this theory and ordered an autopsy performed.

Situation Eased as Trac-tion Line Resumes in San Francisco

FOOD IS IMPORTED

More Restaurants Permitted to Do Business

BY RALPH B. JORDAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—(INS.)—This famed area by the Golden Gate, a great municipal giant lashed and bound and dazed under the terrific blows of a history-making general strike, stirred today and started snapping its thong.

San Francisco and the state of California fought back for the 700,000 terrorized citizens of the city, caught like babes in the woods and crushed between the lines in one of America's momentous labor wars.

Confronted by 4,600 steel-helmeted national guardsmen shouldering bayoneted rifles and equipped with Whippet tanks, artillery and machine guns and with United States soldiers, sailors and marines ready for duty, union labor leaders partially lifted the "Siege of San Francisco" and the paralyzed community started coming back to life during the second day of the general walkout.

STREET CARS MOVING

The streets of the city once more heard the clanging of street cars.

Fresh food supplies were "permitted" through the strikers' highway blockades, relieving the growing menace of starvation.

And enough restaurants to feed the public were "allowed" to open. But the other side of the picture was dark.

There was no immediate prospect of peace and the strike leaders, although removing some of the bones from the affected region, put on more as additional unions across the bay to the east from San Francisco in Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda and seven other municipalities walked out, moving toward the goal of every union man around the bay on strike.

Also the likelihood that the general strike, the aftermath of a walkout 68 days ago by Pacific coast longshoremen, would spread to other great western ports was seen in reports from Portland, Ore., Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., and Los Angeles and San Diego, Cal.

UNION AGENTS MEET

All union business agents in Portland were to meet today and it was said unofficially that a general walkout would be ordered for tomorrow, despite the fact that United States Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York was enroute to Portland in an effort to ease the situation.

Seattle reported a divergence of opinion, some union leaders saying the city was sliding toward a general strike, others saying it was no.

In Los Angeles a "war chest" fund of $6,500 was being raised to feed striking longshoremen and their families as police started collecting all firearms from private citizens at San Pedro, the port of Los Angeles.

At San Diego strike-breakers were sited by longshoremen, but at neither San Diego nor Los Angeles was the general strike movement strong at present.

With the 79 unions and their 32,000 members walking out today on the eastern shore of San Francisco Bay, the strike tally read:

Coastwide—23,000 longshoremen and seamen; San Francisco, 177 unions with 75,000 men; Oakland, Berkeley and other east bay cities, 107 unions with 47,000 men—for a grand total of 145,000 men on strike or the coast with 122,000.

Oils Wear Slugging Togs, Defeat Dairy by 13 to 3

Circleville Oils drove out 20 hits for 38 bases Monday evening and easily defeated the Circle City dairy, 13-3. Lethargic base running prevented the Oil team from scoring more markers.

Lloyd Leasure started on the hill for the dairymen but was the victim of much of the assault. Maloney took up the duties where Leasure left off and also was hard hit. The longest hit of the game was a home run past the scoreboard in center field by Art Walker. Carl Purcell tallied a tripple, two doubles and a single; Leroy Moore had a tripple and three singles; Walker smacked a home run, triple and two singles to lead the swatsmiths.

The dairymen counted one run in the sixth inning on solid smashes by Elliott and Butler and added two in the eighth as Straws doubled over Joe Barnes' head in left and scored as Walker committed two errors on hard balls.

GAVE FOUR HITS

Carl Purcell gave only four hits, one in the second inning, two in the sixth and one in the eighth. He fanned only one batter and walked but one.

Tonight finds the Given Oils meeting the rejuvenated McClarren Meats and Wednesday the Purina chows will meet the Eshelman Feeds.

Bill Hegele and Ralph Lutz were Monday's umpires, both doing a good job.

YANKEES CLIMB NEAR TO FIRST

NEW YORK, July 17.—Joe McCarthy's New York Yankees were able to breathe distinctly easier today for only a mere half game now separates them from those astonishing league leaders the Detroit Tigers.

The Yanks proved they could "take it," as the Broadway boys say, when they bounced back after a disastrous series with those selfsame Tigers to drop the Cleveland Indians for a count in Cleveland yesterday, 7 to 4.

While this was going on, the Tigers were proving themselves unused to prosperity by losing to the punch drunk Senators of Washington.

The Yankees defeated the Indians as the result of a "rally" in the ninth inning in which they tallied four times on one hit and six passes. Winegarner, Brown and Welland were the hurriers who became so lavish with the Annie Oakleys.

The game marked the return of Johnny Allen to the ranks of Yankee pitching regulars.

A late rally also featured the Tigers-Senators contest which Joe Cronin's charges copied, 10-8. Going into the sixth inning trailing by one run, the Senators fell on Luke Hamlin and pushed over four runs. In the seventh inning they pounded Auker and Marberry for five more tallies.

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

BANQUET PLANNED

THE RECREATION BALL meeting Monday evening attended by five of the eight managers resulted in a bit of legislation that is certain to be approved—Prior to the opening of the season an elimination series was set to be played at the conclusion of the second half; all money in the league treasury at that time was to be divided on a percentage basis among the winners of the elimination series. It seems there was too much stress laid on this series with the first and second halves counting for not enough, so the managers voted to put all money that is in the treasury at the end of the season into a pot to finance a banquet for all managers, players, umpires and other persons who have helped make the league a success.

HELP THE "KITTY"

The first year ball was played here the Lutheran Brotherhood put on a banquet which proved a real success—it is hoped this year's will be the same kind. There is some money in the treasury now, but not as much as there should be since recreation ball fans have been reluctant to drop the coin into the fedora—even those who could well afford it are "looking out the window" when the hat goes by.

New bags for the three bases have been ordered and should be here by this time.

BEATTY NOT USED

AT THE MEETING MONDAY Roy Norris, straw-board manager, disclosed that he did not intend to retain Art Beatty, Darbyville ball player, who played last week; he doesn't have a job for him; neither does Norris intend to keep Rich Smalley, who played in last week's game—Whether Bill Hegele is working is not certain but it is sure that Cum (Ve Vas Robbed) Robinson will not release Hegele unless he does get a job.

Tate McClarren is intending to manage his own team and will use Red Lawhorn, Kaymie Brungs and Carl Thomas, late of the straw-board; Norris is keeping Don Brannon; McClarren is also releasing Smalley and has released Gaines Hill.

REVOLTA VICTOR

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 17.—The St. Paul open golf championship for 1934 today belonged to Johnny Revolta, the young Milwaukee pro with the wild and woolly hair.

Revolta gathered in the honors on the 36th green in a sensational play-off with Harry Cooper of Glen Ellyn, Ill., and Ky Laffoon of Denver. Laffoon finished in second place with 143 to Revolta's 142, and in third place was Cooper, with 145.

The young Milwaukee marksman fought a close battle all the way with Laffoon, but went into the lead at the twenty-second hole to stay ahead. Rain had soaked the Keller course.

Laffoon and Revolta started the play-off with sub-par 71's that left Cooper four down to his foes. Revolta posted his second consecutive 71 in the afternoon round, but Laffoon could do no better than a par 72. Cooper's par-70 was to no avail.

Racer Guilty

Kaye Don

Found guilty on charges of causing the death of his mechanic when their machine overturned on the Isle of Man during a night race trial run, Kaye Don, above, well known British auto and motorboat speed king faces a jail sentence or a fine. The trial was unique in that it was the first time in court records a driver has been tried for causing the death of his mechanic in an accident.

Milwaukee Is Given All-Star Preference

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 17.—The Columbus Red Birds hoped to do better under the lights tonight than they have done in the last two day's afternoon games. Bud Teachout was chased off the mound yesterday and the Kansas City Blues won from the Birds 10 to 7. The Blues had handed the Columbus club a double pasting the day before.

Tonight's game winds up the series between the two clubs. Tomorrow is an off day for Columbus, when the American Association All-Stars play the Millers at Minneapolis. The Birds, incidentally, were forgotten entirely by the pickers of the All-Star team, as were the Louisville Colonels.

Seven Milwaukee players were selected and five from Kansas City. One each from St. Paul, Indianapolis, and Toledo make up the team.

The Birds start a three-game series at Milwaukee Friday, finishing their current road tour Sunday, Monday, July 23, will be an off day, but on the following day the Flock will be back at its home stadium.

International Bridge

CORNWALL, Ontario.—A new international traffic bridge linking Cornwall, Ontario, and Roosevelt town, New York, adds another to many channels of communication between the United States and Canada. The formal opening of this new international vehicle route took place on June 30th, the opening day of Cornwall's centennial celebration. It is the only bridge connecting Canada and the United States between Montreal and Niagara Falls.

Urge City Manager

TOLEDO.—The city manager of government may soon be tried here.

Support for the movement to establish that type of local control grew recently after the city council had wrangled five hours over salary changes and found that it had accomplished nothing when it was through.

CONCERN PLANS BIG "GOOD WILL" SALE

Cussins & Fearn Offers Savings on Home and Farm Necessities.

As a compliment to their thousands of patrons in this community, the firm of Cussins & Fearn will soon announce what it designates as a "Good-Will Sale." During the continuance of this sale it is understood that many articles of every-day need in the store will be sold at greatly reduced prices, thus giving customers the benefit of substantial savings on necessities for the home, garden, farm, and shop.

"We feel that we owe something to our wide circle of customers for their continued loyalty and patronage," Harold McCord, manager of the local store said.

DEPENDS ON GOOD WILL

"The success of our business," he continued, "depends on the good-will of our customers. But it isn't enough just to thank them or write them letters telling them how much we appreciate their trade. So we thought we would do something that would express our appreciation in a practical way. For that reason, we decided to offer for a limited period our high quality merchandise at greatly reduced prices. And as their good-will is back of this event, we decided to call this our "Good-Will Sale."

"We feel, of course," said Mr. McCord, "that we have always given our customers big values for their money. And they must feel the same way about it, too; or they would not continue to give us so much of their trade. But now we want to give them something extra—not only the values they have been getting in the past, but extra savings besides. We think they're entitled to that at least. And to give them these savings, many prices have been reduced to the point where I do not think I exaggerate when I say that every article in this sale will be a real bargain."

The firm of Cussins & Fearn was established in Columbus more than forty years ago and it has enjoyed a sound and steady growth ever since. According to the management of the concern, this growth has been due to the long established policy of offering only the highest quality of goods at lowest prices.

22 STORES ESTABLISHED

As business expanded, and in order to give better service to more people, branch stores were established from time to time. Today there are 22 Cussins & Fearn stores in 18 cities of central Ohio. The local store is one of them. It shares in the benefits of the tremendous buying power of the parent concern and enables it to maintain a price level lower than would otherwise be possible.

Cussins & Fearn has become a real factor in the mercantile life of this community and in the opinion of those who know the store it is a position rightly earned.

The Good-Will sale will be announced in this paper within the next few days. It is suggested that it will be to your interest to watch for this announcement and to take advantage of the savings offered.

"YARD" ARRESTS MAN IN "TORSO" MURDERS

LONDON, July 17.—With the efficiency for which it is world renowned Scotland Yard today picked up Tony Mancini, seaside roamer, wanted for questioning in connection with the murder of Violet Kaye, dancer and victim of Brighton's trunk murder number two.

Mancini was found early today on Blackheath, the large open space in southeast London. It was Mancini who for the past six weeks had been living in the room in the Barnard's Kemp street rooming house in Brighton with the large trunk which contained the body of the beautiful dancer.

QUESTIONED BEFORE

By one of the strangest coincidences in British criminal annals, Mancini had been arrested and questioned in connection with Brighton's trunk murder number one, the still unidentified female torso found in a trunk in the check room of Brighton's central station on June 17.

Endeavoring to clear up the mystery of the torso in the trunk (the legs later were found in London but the head and arms have not been found) police meticulously investigated all cases of missing women. Violet Kaye, former variety and revue dancer and singer, who had been living in Brighton under the name of Mrs. Violet Watson, was one of the missing women carefully checked on.

Investigation of the case of Violet Kaye led police to take Tony Mancini into custody for questioning as a close friend of the dancer's. However, when they found that the Kaye woman was slim (the torso was that of a heavy woman) they let Mancini go.

IN SAME ROOM

Only a few days later Violet Kaye's body was found in a trunk in the Kemp street rooming house in the very room which had been occupied by Mancini for the past six weeks during all of which time the body evidently was in the trunk.

The presence of brown wrapping paper similar to that in which the torso found in the central station a month before and a bloodstained knife in addition to the hatchet Violet Kaye was slain with, led the police to connect the two cases and to investigate the possibility that the torso had been dismembered in this very room.

According to a show girl, Lia De Kornel, who formerly knew Mancini, he had recently come from the United States. She said that a year ago he had tried to sell her a trunk load of women's clothing including eight expensive evening dresses, saying that he had just come from America and that he wanted to return.

Amidst the glare of the fiery cross and in sight of an American flag, 350 recruits are shown being initiated into the hooded Ku Klux Klan, at its first Oklahoma rally in several years. of them concentrated in the San Francisco Bay region.

2,600 MORE TROOPS

The 2,000 national guardsmen who have policed the San Francisco waterfront since the fierce riots of July 5 were reinforced by 2,600 state troops who entered the city with tanks, artillery, fixed bayonets and bulging cartridge belts.

At the same time that he ordered the reinforcements here, Acting Governor Frank F. Merriam revealed that all the national guard in California, consisting of 6,400 officers and men, is under arms, the reserves being held at various armories throughout the state.

The federal forces that are ready consist of 1,200 sailors and 200 marines from the cruisers San Francisco and Cincinnati, now at the Mare Island navy yard in San Francisco Bay, and 1,000 troops at the Presidio of San Francisco, mainly the 30th infantry.

Both Rear Admiral Y. S. Williams, Mare Island commandant, and Major General Malin Craig, commanding the Ninth Corps area, with headquarters at the Presidio, said the federal services will be called out only if the national guard proves inadequate to control riots or if government property is damaged.

Governor Merriam said he would declare martial law only when requested by official agencies in the strike area.

The possibility of mediation by President Roosevelt's National Longshoremen's board, arbitration body, faded when the board received notification from the joint marine strike committee that the general strike can only be settled if ship-owners agree to union control of halls in which longshoremen and seamen are hired and if the owners agree to arbitrate all other questions with marine unions.

The break in the paralysis of San Francisco came yesterday in a test run of four street cars on the municipal lines which were sent from the beach on the west side of the city to the ferry building on the east, or bay side, conveyed by police cars and carrying three officers each.

Down Market-st, the city's main thoroughfare which had not seen a single car on its four-track system since the night before, the four cars rumbled while crowds cheered and sighed in relief.

The ovation to the cars indicated the temper of the populace and the municipal carmen were ordered back to work to put all their cars in operation today—an order acknowledged by the strike leaders to save the carmen their civil service standing which they were told would be forfeited if they failed to report today.

COVER ONE THIRD

The municipal lines cover about

one-third of the city.

The two other street car systems in San Francisco are still strike-bound.

Trucks carrying food supplies were "allowed" past the strikers' picket lines as the strike leaders announced they had no intention of imposing "unnecessary hardships" on the public.

The additional restaurants were given "permits" to open by the general strike committee when it was found yesterday that the 19 then serving food were utterly unable to handle the demands made upon them.

Hungry citizens stood in lines for blocks trying to get an opportunity to appease their sharpened appetites.

The supplies being run in by trucks, guarded by deputy sheriffs and police, will be made available to eager housewives at warehouses and wholesale commission houses. And the housewives will be glad to replenish their shelves, dangerously close to the point of barrenness.

However, the city's theaters still were dark and retail stores reported their stocks very low because of the strike of teamsters who haul stocks from the wholesale points to the retail merchants.

Gov. Merriam, in a radio address, warned the strikers that he will act with the "utmost vigor and decision" if they put the hunger blockades back or become riotous.

NEWARK, N. J., July 17.—United States Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York was speeding westward by air today to act as the special emissary of President Roosevelt in the efforts to end the disastrous general strike in San Francisco.

The senator took off from Newark airport in a special plane shortly before last midnight.

He will head directly for Portland, Ore., where he hopes to prevent a general strike similar to that now prevailing in San Francisco. He will go to San Francisco from Portland.

Another resolution, also forwarded to the state relief commission, asks the state officials for authority to pay unpaid bills for CWA projects amounting to $4,561.23. These bills will be paid out of the selective sales tax fund.

The state relief commission is expected to take action on all three of the resolutions at one of its meetings this week.

The new relief administrative set-up in the county will be completed as soon as a clerk has been named for the office of the county director, it was said today.

IRWIN ON JURY

Howard S. Irwin, the new director, was sitting as a member of the grand jury Tuesday and had not yet announced his appointment for the position. Miss Clara Southward, W. Franklin-st, has been approved for the job of investigator. She will be assisted by the township trustees in the rural sections.

2 SUSPECTS HELD

HARTSDALE, N. Y., July 17.—A new and widespread hunt for Bobby Connor, missing 21-month-old child, was instituted today following the questioning of two men by investigators.

State and local police, federal investigators and Boy Scouts took part in another extensive combing of the underbrush near the Connor home where the tot was seen a short time before his disappearance Thursday.

One of the men questioned described himself as Harry Lee Forrester, 51, an itinerant peddler, who was identified as the man seen near the Connor home shortly before the child's absence was noted.

The police declined to reveal the identity of the other man questioned.

FINE SUSPENDED

Weldon Adams, Pike-co, was fined $5 and costs, both of which were suspended by Mayor W. B. Cady Tuesday, when he appeared on a charge of intoxication.

Adams was arrested Monday at 9:15 p. m. by Officer Fred Fitzpatrick.

Federal School Aid

It is not easy to get at the exact figures showing the extent to which the federal government has contributed financially to public education this year. Dr. Zook, retiring United States commissioner of education, says it "runs up high into the hundreds of millions."

The reason accurate figures are hard to obtain is because the aid was forthcoming from various agencies, and the expenditures in some cases, had an indirect relation to education. Of the federal contributions, $31,500,000 was made by the federal relief emergency administration. The reconstruction finance corporation established a revolving fund of $75,000,000 for the making of loans. The civil works administration and the public works administration also did their part by supplying funds for use in repairing school buildings and erecting new ones. Some of the money also went for beautifying buildings.

Dr. Zook, addressing the National Education association, stressed the fact that the administration had sought to avoid committing itself to federal aid for education as a permanent policy. The gifts and loans made were regarded as necessary to meet an emergency, some of the money going for the relief of unemployed teachers.

The retiring commissioner revealed that the administration was able to hold to its position in making federal aid to schools merely a part of its relief program "in the face of tremendous pressure on the part of a large proportion of the teaching profession."

This is significant as indicating what is to be expected in the future. It takes no prophet to see that this pressure will be increased next year.

Proponents of permanent federal school aid will see in the help given this year an opening wedge for their plan.

Our guess is that about 2,000,000 other laws would be repealed if the people had a crack at them.

The Responsibility

BEFORE venting his fury upon foreign newspapers for publishing what he termed inaccurate reports of recent events in Germany, Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, might have given a little time to try to see how much of the responsibility for this should rest upon the Hitler government.

Herr Goebbels did not attack the American press or American news agencies, which seems to indicate that the report carried in American newspapers gave a generally accurate picture of conditions. Either this is the case or the minister for political reasons, decided it would be better policy to overlook American newspapers in voicing his criticism.

"From the accounts of the 'revolution' and of how it was 'crushed' as read by Americans, it is hard to see how other foreign newspapers could have deliberately added much horror to their accounts of conditions. The impression gained here was that the dictator ruthlessly slew former friends and enemies alike in a mad desire to let the world know that he still was boss."

Starting to Reap the Harvest

"THE LONE WOLF'S SON"

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

CHAPTER XXVI

From the threshold came a response of false diffidence: "Acting for the Captain at his request and with your permission, madame, messieurs—"

It was Plon who introduced himself.

"The sallow features of the Frenchman worked in spite of every effort to control them; glee flashed on them like phosphorescence as he lent attention to the Rajah's grievances—from which, be sure, an indictment of Lanyard for card-sharpping was not omitted. Before it was finished, Plon was giving his lean and hairy hands a nice dry wash."

"Yes," he kept interjecting in the croak of a hawk hovering above a helpless prey, "yes, yes. And very gratifying," he pronounced at the conclusion, with a smack of dry lips like the snap of a beak, "very! By what appears, monsieur,"—his sharp small eyes sprayed Lanyard with their spleen,—"you did not take me seriously when I advised you to keep out of mischief for the remainder of this voyage."

"Don't thank me, monsieur," Lanyard politely insisted; "thank His Highness, rather, and his collaborators in the staging of this scene for your delight."

"Oh, as for that," Plon in all candor owned, "I confess I shan't be sorry to see you put out of harm's way till we sight Cherbourg again."

"How is that, 'out of harm's way'?"

"Under lock and key, monsieur, which he least secure from the persecution which he alleges every time one finds him involved in some new scandal."

"But note that I am still at large, and of no mind to be otherwise."

"Do not deceive yourself: you are as good as under arrest already. Did I not serve notice on you last night that the Captain was at the end of his patience and would not another time give you the benefit of the doubt?"

"One is unaware of having ever asked for any."

"It has none the less stood you twice in good stead since you left France. I am afraid you will regret, this time, having forfeited the right to claim it."

"Even though it be proved I am unjustly accused?"

"Even in that improbable contingency, monsieur—unless, naturally, you are prepared to clear yourself by pointing out the guilty person."

"Many thanks for the compliment; but that is work for finer wits than mine—I can't pretend to rival the great Plon's. I can only say, for whatever it may be worth to you, it is my conviction that a proper search will bring the ring to light—a search, understand me, not only of these rooms, but of everybody in them, to which I for one will gracefully submit, only on condition that my host himself is equally compliant."

"Mr. Isquith was right," the Rajah disdainfully commented; "the fellow is plainly out of his head when he suggests that I subject my guests, much more myself, to such indignity."

"Then I am afraid you will have to seek your ruby otherwise than by personal search—as far, at least, as I am concerned."

"As a last resort, however," Plon cheerfully pointed out, "we can always use force."

"It will have to be overpowering, I promise; and you must be prepared for every remedy at command. A French citizen whose legal rights have been violated on what is technically French soil."

After an instant Plon with a grimace of distaste conceded: "There is that, to be sure!"—and looked to the others as if for promptings.

"What!" Isquith obliged in faint impatience. "D'you mean to say you, an officer of the law, can hesitate in a case like this, when the suspect is a notorious criminal?"

"Is?" the agent of the Sureté demurred. "But the difficulty is just there, monsieur; we can't say 'is' at all events not yet; we can only say 'was' till the contrary is shown beyond dispute. The record of monsieur's early years is against him, I grant you; yet it is true that, even then, the best minds of the Prefecture labored in vain to lay the Lone Wolf by the heels; the crimes accredited to him were an old wives' tale before we were sure that he and M. Michael Lanyard were one man and the same; and if we have kept close watch on him ever since, it has been love's labor lost; there is not a single shady page that one can point to in his post-war dossier."

"For my part I am incurably skeptical of all such informations; I admit I would be glad to hale the Lone Wolf back to France a prisoner—that would be a rare feather in my cap! It is none the less true that never till I met him on this vessel have I had any excuse for holding M. Lanyard's conduct questionable; and even now—"

Plon had a shrug. "To sum it all up," the Rajah fumed, "you take his part!"

"Your Highness does me injustice. But when M. Lanyard protests his readiness to be searched, provided only that all others concerned will submit to the same formality—that, I confess, seems not unreasonable to me."

"But my dear sir!" Isquith expostulated. "It's all bluff—can't you see that? The fellow's simply sparring for time. Don't you suppose he knows the Rajah of Ladore couldn't possibly swallow such insulting terms, couldn't possibly consent to put himself, not to mention his guests, on a footing with a fellow? Far from being reasonable, the man's attitude is preposterous."

"The more sincere you sound, monsieur," Lanyard advised him, "the more satisfied I am that I should like to see you searched."

"Particularly me?"

"Particularly you."

"Not that would mind. But aren't you rather invalidating your gesture of conscious innocence when you exempt by implication Mrs. Boyce and His Highness?"

"Monsieur goes too fast. I have not offered to exempt them. To my mind, indeed, it grows clearer every minute that they are as deep in this petty plot as yourself."

"This goes beyond all toleration!" the Rajah exploded. "Really, M. Plon—"

"Half a minute, Your Highness," Lanyard with perfect calm interposed. "I have changed my mind. On second thought, I shall be happy to spare Madame Boyce all embarrassment, provided she will give me her word that the ruby is not in her possession."

"Hello!" Isquith sneered. "Why the sudden rush of chairity to the head?"

"You wouldn't understand. And it really doesn't matter," Lanyard

indifferently declared. "Frankly, I am bored to find myself resenting this child's play with childishness. I withdraw my stipulation. After all, I only made it for a purpose; if any one of you actually believed I had stolen the ring, he would have snapped up my offer, conceiving me to be the only one who could suffer."

Here Lanyard, tendering a not unfriendly nod to the confused eyes which he viewed in the woman's face of heightened color, got up.

"For myself, I don't care, really, who made away with the ruby; all I am concerned about is to enjoy this good policeman's disappointment."

He unbuttoned his coat and spread his arms.

"There, M. Plon: do your damndest—I should say your duty as you see it: go through the motions of a conscientious sleuth, changing the functions of his office."

His peroration covered a stir of astonishment, amusing enough to contemplate when one had anticipated it; but he hadn't finished before Plon, with a little purring snarl, was taking full advantage of his permission—his hand expertly rummaging Lanyard's pockets and testing his garments for less obvious places of concealment.

"Nothing!" he announced in disgust, falling back and looking at the Rajah. "The man has nothing on his person that he has not a right to."

"Impossible!" The Rajah's countenance was all at once darkly congested, the look he turned involuntarily to Isquith was black with illegible emotion. "He must have it!"

"I could swear I saw him—"

"A trifle late with that claim, aren't you?" Lanyard acidly inquired. "Why didn't you make it to begin with, instead of leading our good Plon to believe there was at least something remotely resembling a question? I don't call that kind of you!"

"Keep a civil tongue in your head, sir."

"Oddly enough, I find myself insensible of any obligation to be respectful to Your Highness."

"But there is nothing!" Plon insisted, even while he continued obediently to make perfunctory dabs at Lanyard's garments. "I assure Your Highness, I know. . . . Short of stripping the man—unless, of course, he has swallowed it."

"Don't talk like a donkey," Isquith recommended in recurrent weariness. "Of course the fellow hasn't got the ring on him, I could have told you in the first place you would never find it, searching him."

"Where, then?"

"Heaven knows where the person has hidden it by this time—wherever it was that he left the room to speak to just before we missed the ruby."

"Person?" What person?" The eyes of the Frenchman were quick with fresh suspicion. "Who was this person, monsieur?"

"My son."

"Ah!" Isquith sagely nodded. "The young hopeful. Papa's little helper."

"How sharp he is!" Lanyard addressed his remarks of mocking admiration to Plon: "Positively a needle! Really, there's no keeping anything from such penetration. Who else would have seen through the plot that brought my boy to the door to receive the plunder the very first instant after I had fled it. Did I say a needle? I should have said a pinhead."

"Assistant President" Rests

MOVIES

AT THE GRAND

Ralph Harold, who a year or two ago was "top heavy" on the Warner lot, has come back home. For the first time in many months he is once more playing a role at the studios in "Jimmy The Gent," now showing at the Grand Theatre, with Jimmy Cagney in the stellar role. At one time Ralph could be expected to provide the menace in almost any Warner Eros production. Some of the pictures in which he sneered, glowered and threatened were "Alexander Hamilton," with George Arliss; "The Ruling Voice," "The Star Witness," "Stranger in Town," "Safe in Hell," "Night Nurse" and "Smart Money."

AT THE CLIFTONA

One of the funniest plays in the history of the modern theatre, often called a "classic in laughs," comes to the Cliftona Theatre. It is "The Show-Off," starring Spencer Tracy with Madge Evans at the head of a notable cast. From the evening of its first production on the stage of the Playhouse, New York, "The Show-Off" was a smash hit. It broke attendance records during its New York showing, and since has been played in virtually every city in America. The playwright was George Kelly, to whom the play is said to have netted a fortune.

The story deals with the complications that arise in the life of a young man who talks too much. He brags of his social position, his motor cars and his estates, none of which he has. He tells the president of his company how to run the concern and talks himself out of a job.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

TRADE MARK

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

There was little success.

On the third week-end, the Navy Secretary tried it for a half hour, then gave up. In disgust, he spent the afternoon reading, went to his stateroom shortly after dinner. In his place he left faithful secretary Archibald Odlin.

He fished all night, all the next morning until time to depart. All along Chesapeake Bay were being reported record catches. But when the Sequoia lifted anchor to return to Washington, the Navy's fishing lines were still baited.

Note—The fishing jinx on the Sequoia is a very snooty one. It only operates when high officials are aboard. It bothers not with small fry. A cabinet officer, or the Chief Executive can't catch a minnow, but once they step ashore, things change. A dozen times this season, when the boat was anchored in the Bay during the week, with only the officers and crew aboard, large catches have been made.

Run Around Is a Painful Infection

Is Usually Found at Tip of Finger; May Cause a Deformity

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D. United States senator from New York Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

NEGLECT of the finger nails or the skin of the fingers often leads to severe and disabling infection. A simple hang-nail is a common finger annoyance and may be the seat of a serious infection. When the hang-nail is neglected or irritated, there will be a break of the skin which permits the entrance of germs.

"Paronychia," or "run around," as it is more commonly called, is a common infection found at the edge or root of the nail.

caused by neglect of simple abrasions in that region. As a rule, this condition is associated with improper care of the hands and fingers.

Once the germs have entered the skin and come in contact with the tissue surrounding the nail, an abscess forms. The victim is first aware of this infection by a throbbing sensation and painful swelling at the border of the finger nail. The nail becomes dark and raised on its edge. As a rule it is extremely painful and disabling.

Home Remedies Ineffective

Since the abscess burrows its way under the nail, relief can only be obtained by a small incision. This permits the pus to drain out and gives the finger a chance to heal.

Too often the victim of this discomfort resorts to home remedies. This treatment may give relief from pain but rarely a cure. The infection usually recurs and the condition is then spoken of as "chronic paronychia." Ordinarily this leads to a marked deformity of the infected finger nail. It is a disagreeable deformity and for an individual whose work requires careful use of the fingers it is indeed annoying.

I cannot overemphasize the importance of prompt and careful attention to infections and abrasions of the hands. Neglect of a simple scratch or injury may lead to a severe blood infection. I know of many cases where fingers have been sacrificed and even hands amputated because of neglect of a trivial pin prick or simple infection.

Danger of Blood Poisoning

When infections of the finger are neglected and pus is present, the infection may spread up the arm and the poisonous substance become absorbed in the blood stream. When this occurs septicemia or blood poisoning may follow. This is a dreaded and serious complication.

Whenever an injury of the finger or hand occurs a suitable antiseptic should be applied immediately. If the injury has been produced by a rusty nail or dirty object, it is best to consult a physician. In such instances it is advisable to receive a "tetanus antitoxin" injection. This will prevent lockjaw.

Never ignore an injury to the finger, regardless of how trivial it may appear to you. Throbbing or painful swelling is a sign that must not be ignored. Delay in obtaining the necessary treatment may mean extensive operation and disfiguring scars.

PWA Plan Long Urged by Briton

Typical PWA project recommended by Keynes.

Back of the huge sums congress voted President Roosevelt to spend as "he saw fit" to push forward the public works administration projects looms the figure of John Maynard Keynes, noted British economist, who for decades has pleaded for a large public works expenditure fund as a means of pulling nations out of depression doldrums. Keynes recently talked for several hours at the White House with apparent effect inasmuch as the chief executive immediately asked for increased PWA appropriations. The influential British scholar accurately foretold the world crisis after the "disastrous" Versailles treaty in 1919, and withdrew from the peace conference in protest against its "injustices"

Why would it cost Less to buy a Gas refrigerator than to have any other kind given to you?

Less than 3¢ TO OPERATE

Gas refrigeration costs one-third to one-fifth as much to operate as other methods. It has no moving parts to wear out and necessitate costly repairs or replacements. These savings, over a period of a few years, will pay for a gas refrigerator. See the new Electrolux gas refrigerators at once.

Salad—The Mainstay of Summer Meals

What's the most important dish on the summer menu? If you are very, very young you probably will say, "Ice cream!" with a lusty shout. We won't argue with you about it, but I'm sure you will agree with me that a salad, crisply cold, can be very inviting on a hot day.

Here are some salads you may not have made before. Any of them can take a popular place on the menu—with a bow.

Tomato Piquante Salad

6 medium sized tomatoes
1 Tsp. chopped parsley
1/2 lb. American cheese, or
4 hard cooked eggs, sliced

Scald the tomatoes to loosen the skins and peel. Chill in the refrigerator. Make 4 parallel cuts in each tomato from the top almost to the bottom, being careful not to sever the sections. In the cuts thus made, insert very thin slices of cheese or egg. Arrange on crisp lettuce leaves and sprinkle with parsley. Serve with mayonnaise to which mustard, Worcestershire sauce and onion have been added to taste.

Summer Salad

6 firm tomatoes 2 C. shredded cabbage
1/2 C. cooked string beans 1/2 C. cooked peas
1/2 C. diced celery French dressing

Wash tomatoes; remove stem end and scoop out part of the pulp. Mix the remaining ingredients and fill tomatoes. Chill thoroughly and serve on crisp lettuce. Serves 6.

Tuna Fish Salad

2 C. flaked tuna fish
1 C. celery, cut in pieces
1 C. diced apple
2 Tsp. capers
1 1/2 Tsp. chopped pimiento
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. paprika
1 egg, hard cooked

Combine fish, celery, 1 Tsp. capers and seasoning. Marinate and chill. Just before serving, mix with mayonnaise. Serve in lettuce cups. Top with mayonnaise and garnish with remaining capers and slices of egg.

Any of these salads that are used for the main course of a meal are more substantial and may be more elaborate, too. One of these salads served with biscuits, muffins or rolls is a whole meal in itself.

When you come to the end of a perfect meal, the proper dessert salad will bring praise from your guests. Fruits are suggested for the dessert salad. Bananas, dates, figs, grapefruit, grapes, peaches, pears, pineapple and oranges—served alone or in combination, or stuffed with nuts or cheese—wins approval. The fruits are good, too, in an aspic made of ginger ale or fruit juice, or frozen in a dressing of cream cheese and mayonnaise.

Cheese and Apple Salad

1 pkg. lemon gelatin
1 pt. boiling water
2 Tsp. lemon juice
1 red apple, diced
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
1 pkg. cream cheese
1/2 C. walnut meats

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water, add 1 Tsp. lemon juice and salt. Chill. Combine apples, sugar, salt and remaining lemon juice. When slightly thickened, add apples to half of gelatin mixture. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Beat the rest of the gelatin until fluffy and thick like whipped cream. Fold in cheese and nuts. Pour over firm, first layer. Serve in squares on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise.

FERA PROGRAM TO AID 1,000 AT OHIO STATE

Continuation of Part-Time Employment For Deserving Boys, Girls Learned.

COLUMBUS, July 17.—Continuation of the Federal Emergency Relief administration part-time employment program for college students will help 1,000 deserving Ohio boys and girls to attend Ohio State university next year, according to President George W. Rightmire.

Students of good character and scholarship who could not otherwise attend Ohio State for financial reasons will be given employment in campus offices, enabling them to earn approximately $15 per month toward their university expenses. The plan will be similar to that which prevailed during the spring months, when 933 Ohio State students were given assistance.

WRITE TO STRADLEY

Pickaway-co young people desiring to take advantage of this opportunity are invited to send their applications to B. L. Stradley, university examiner. Both new and advanced students are eligible. During the spring months students from more than 60 counties were helped to attend Ohio State under the federal aid plan, according to Mr. Stradley.

Several months ago President Rightmire wrote Harry L. Hopkins, FERA administrator, urging that the assistance for students be continued next year. He pointed out that, in spite of business improvements, "it is evident that educational opportunity is denied to thousands of young people whose capabilities, character, high school record and ambitions all point unmistakably to the social need as well as the personal necessity and advantage of being in college."

Hopkins gave authority last week for the student-employment project to be continued during the new school year starting Oct. 2, at Ohio State.

2 DEATHS STUDIED BY JURY

Harold Southworth, Lester Coey, Death-car Drivers, Held in Jail

WITNESSES HEARD

Transfer of Auto Figures in Gatwood Death

Grand jury action on the weekend's two fatal traffic accidents was expected today, and in the meantime, the drivers of the "death-dealing" autos were held in the county jail pending the investigation.

Prosecutor Ray W. Davis will have witnesses unfold the events leading up to the tragic happenings to the grand jurors today as they meet for a two-day session to study several important cases.

Harold Southworth, 26, Detroit auto salesman, and Lester Coey, 23, Ross-co farm laborer, drivers of the autos figuring in the wrecks, are in the county jail awaiting the grand jury's action.

Coey was arrested Monday afternoon, following a preliminary hearing conducted by Prosecutor Davis in the sheriff's office.

TWO MEN KILLED
Southworth's car, Saturday night struck the ladder-wagon on which Yonel Scaff, 51, farm laborer, was riding, causing the latter's death, and Coey was driving the car which hit the Omar Baking Co. truck at an intersection at Whisler Saturday afternoon, resulting in the death of the truck driver, Allen Gatwood, 20, of Hallsville.

At the prosecutor's hearing Monday afternoon, it was learned that Coey was driving a Dodge coupe supposedly belonging to Matthew Gilpin, Chillicothe R. F. D. 6, his employer, who accompanied him, but investigation revealed that the car had been transferred before he had the car, and other persons and a bill of sale had never been filed in the clerk of court's office.

Gilpin said he secured the auto from Herbert Haddock of Williamsport. The latter delivered him no bill of sale, Gilpin testified. It was also learned that the license plates on the Dodge car belonged to a Ford formerly owned by Haddock.

NEEDED SALE BILL
When questioned, Haddock said that he had never received a bill of sale from Russell Kneese, who sold him the car in January. Kneese said that when he sold the car to Haddock, he was of the opinion that the latter planned to "junk" it and did not believe a bill of sale was necessary.

Since he was the last person to receive a bill of sale for the car, Kneese is the rightful owner, it was shown.

Haddock and Kneese have been ordered to straighten out the bill of sale matter and report for another hearing at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Concerning the wreck, Coey testified that he stopped his car as he approached the intersection and when he moved out into the road he saw the truck coming at him. He declared that Gatwood, driver of the baking truck, was going "at least 60 miles per hour." No warning was sounded, Coey said.

Gilpin, who accompanied Coey substantiated the testimony of the latter.

Besides Prosecutor Davis, Coronator C. E. Bowser and Deputy Sheriff's Brian Custer and Miller Fissell, who investigated the wreck, took part in yesterday's hearing.

With several important cases confronting it the grand jury convened this morning and was to continue its sessions through Tuesday and Wednesday.

Besides the investigation of two fatal weekend traffic accidents, the jurors were to also study the charges against three men being held in the county jail charged with four Ashville robberies, and investigate a charge of selling liquor to minors, which was filed against Earl Stout, this city, by Mrs. Pearl Adkins, E. Main-st.

NEW GAS RATE OFFER TO BE MADE TO CITY

Universal Pipe Line Co. Officers to be at Council Wednesday

MAYOR HAS NOTICE

Offer Made in Chillicothe Monday Evening

Council at its meeting Wednesday evening will be offered a new gas rate of 45 cents per 1,000 cubic feet by representatives of the Universal Pipe Line Co., of Canton, it was learned today.

Representatives of the company have conferred with Mayor W. B. Cady and will be here tomorrow night to present their proposition to the council.

The new company, according to the mayor, is about ready to make a contract with the city of Portsmouth, where a gas rate of 30 cents per 1,000 cubic feet has been offered.

If its own distributing system is to be used, the mayor said he has been informed, the company will charge a rate of 45 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Since Circleville has no distributing system, it is expected the latter rate will be offered.

NO NEGOTIATING
Circleville at present is paying The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. $1 for the first 500 cubic feet, and 60 cents per 1,000 cu. ft. for all over, or an average rate of 73 cents. City council passed a gas ordinance sometime ago, but when a protest was filed by the Citizens League, the gas company withdrew its offer, which it claimed was lower.

Negotiations between the gas company and city council ceased at that time.

Mayor Cady said today that John S. Burke, engineer of the Universal Pipe Line Co. will be here to present his company's offer to council. It is also probable that the city manager and attorney for the city of Portsmouth will also be present, as it is said that they have made an investigation of the new company's status.

The Universal Pipe Line Co. is headed by H. A. Phipps, who was the attorney in the Taft administration of the Philippines. Phipps is expected to attend the meeting.

DAVID PROMOTER
Simon David, prominent Jackson merchant, and son-in-law of Mrs. Germain Joseph, N. Scioto-st., is one of the company's promoters.

Portsmouth, it is understood, is regarded as a key city in a tie-up of southern Ohio cities on a line which would run from West Virginia to consumers reportedly already under contract in the northern part of the state.

COUNTIAN IS FINED FOR DRUNK DRIVING
B. H. Crawford, Circleville R. F. D. 2, was in the Ross-co jail Tuesday to begin serving out a fine of $100 and costs, imposed upon him in Squire Hickey's court in Chillicothe Monday on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Crawford was arrested Sunday afternoon by State Highway Patrolman F. J. Crume. His driving rights were also suspended for six months. Because the car bore license plates issued to another man, the state highway patrol procured a court order to hold the car until an investigation could be made.

BOY, 2, FOUND
HARTSDALE, N. Y., —July 17.—Alive in the woods, where he had apparently survived almost unharmed for five days and nights, 21-months-old Bobby Connor was found today near his home here.

The baby, according to first reports, was not seriously affected by his almost unbelievable experience.

DALEY AND PONTIUS ARE ENROUTE HOME

E. L. Daley, superintendent of schools, and Leslie L. Pontius, W. High-st., are expected to arrive home within a few days from the West, where they have been on a motor tour during the past month.

Mr. Daley was stricken ill at Yellowstone National Park during his visit and was taken to a hospital at Livingston, Mont., where he was confined about one week before starting home. They left Livingston for Ohio Saturday.

POLICE CATCH 3 ROBBERS OF TOLEDO DAIRY
Blonde Not Involved in $18,000 Holdup; Caught in Michigan

MONROE, Mich., July 17.—A blonde woman and three men were captured by farmer deputies and state police early today as they attempted to reach a Chicago sanctuary after robbing a Toledo dairy of $18,000.

Since noon yesterday the deputies armed with shot guns had patrolled roads leading from the Ohio border. At midnight they were about to abandon their search when the lights of a speeding car were sighted on a little used highway about 14 miles west of Monroe.

Swinging their cars the officers halted the small car. As they walked over to it, a man and woman occupying the front seat got out hands in the air. Deputy Walter Comstock went to the rear of the coupe and pulled open the luggage compartment. As he focussed his flash lamp two revolvers were shoved in his face. He stepped back dropping the compartment cover and emptied two barrels of buck shot into the back of the car.

ALL IDENTIFIED
At Monroe-co jail the captives were identified as Carl Lewis, 30, of 5553 Wilson avenue, Chicago; Arnold Perry, 31, of the Jarvis apartment, Fourteenth and Jackson streets, Toledo; Sam Kaufman, 25, of 4650 Sheridan road, Chicago, and his wife, Ester, 23.

Lewis was treated for gunshot wounds of the shoulder inflicted by the deputy's buckshot. Kaufman had a minor head wound received during the help of the Page Dairy company when Henry Page, a company official following the bandits into the street and emptied a shot gun at them.

On the men and in the car police found four .38 caliber pistols in a bag containing $2,000 in cash and a bank deposit slip filled out by the dairy company for slightly more than $3,000.

ADMIT HOLDUP
The men readily admitted the holdup, according to Deputy Albert Voss, but refused to waive extradition. Mrs. Kaufman, blonde statuette and pretty did not participate in the robbery.

COURT TEST SEEN IN NUDIST ARRESTS
Delaware-Co Prosecutor Files Contributory Charges Against Group.

DELAWARE, July 17.—Ohio's first court test over the practice of nudism, which has precipitated legal battles in a number of other states, was in the preliminary stages here today.

Prosecutor Lawrence Keller last night charged eight members of the Health Seekers Club, nudist organization whose members were arrested in a raid near here, with "having acted in a way tending to contribute toward the delinquency of minors."

Keller then turned his attention to uncovering some statutes which would have bearing on the situation. The only one he could find, Keller said, was that of indecent exposure.

The charge of contributing toward delinquency is based upon the presence of two naked children among the group arrested at the camp. The penalty is a fine of $10 to $1,000 and imprisonment of 10 days to one year, or both.

Fifteen members of the club escaped. Jasper Adams, 34, of Columbus, said to have been a former chemistry instructor in an Ohio university, claimed the club has a membership of 36 and that he is the leader.

OHIOAN HONORED
CLEVELAND, July 17.—Henry C. Wolfe, Coshocton, O., lecturer and writer on international affairs, today was one of the few foreigners ever to be decorated with the Order of the Crown of Roumania.

The award, the highest civil or military honor Roumania bestows, was presented to Wolfe yesterday by George Anagnostache, vice consul at the Roumanian royal consulate here "in recognition of his interpretations of the viewpoints of Roumania and the little entente to the American public."

Money Would Put 100 To Work on Airport; Resolutions In Mail.

Relief work will be resumed in Pickaway-co as soon as the state relief commission approves an appropriation of $1,200 for the re-modeling of July, requested by the county commissioners at their meeting Monday.

The money will be used to put 100 men to work on Circleville's new airport which is being constructed on the Rev. Sam C. Elsea property, northwest of the city.

A resolution requesting the appropriation has been forwarded to the relief commission, along with several other resolutions passed by the "dads" Monday.

ONION STRIKERS FACING EVICTION
KENTON, July 17.—Families of 75 of the 400 striking union weathers in the Scioto marshlands today were threatened with eviction proceedings to oust them from the tenant-residences owned by the major onion growers.

Anxious to have a "showdown" with the strikers before the harvesting season actually starts, spokesmen for the operators announced they had retained an attorney to file the eviction suits.

Families of the strikers have been occupying the tenant homes since the men folk walked out on strike about 20 days ago.

Major growers claimed since the start of the strike that the wage demands of the strikers were excessive because they were furnished with houses and small plots of ground for gardens.

Five Soldiers Killed by Shell; Six Die in Trolley Crash; Three Are Shot

MAISON LAFFITTE, France, July 17.—Five soldiers were killed and twenty injured in a terrific explosion today at the military field near here when two soldiers decided to play football with a shell lying on the ground and kicked the percussion cap.

MONTREAL, July 17.—Six persons were killed and thirteen injured when a trolley car and a truck collided here early today.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, July 17.—Three workers were killed and 18 were wounded when police fired on a meeting of sugarmill strikers near Medialuna in the Manzanillo district it was reported here today.

METHODIST MEN TO FROLIC; Church to Destroy Notes
Members of the Methodist Episcopal church Men's Social club are looking forward to the club's annual outing Thursday evening at the Harley Colwell farm, Pickaway-twp. Last year's meeting at the Colwell farm was one of the highlights of the club's year and it is hoped the outing this year will be as successful.

The outing-picnic will start at 5 o'clock with members urged to come anytime between that hour and 8:30; the earlier the better.

There will be no speaking but an evening of fun and exercise will be provided. A softball game is planned and plenty of horse shoes will be ready for use. Since Rev. H. A. Sayre has issued a challenge to take on all grapplers it is possible there will be some fun along this line, although it is probable his Mayor Cady said today that John S. Burke, engineer of the Universal Pipe Line Co. will be here to present his company's offer to council. It is also probable that the city manager and attorney for the city of Portsmouth will also be present, as it is said that they have made an investigation of the new company's status.

The Universal Pipe Line Co. is headed by H. A. Phipps, who was the attorney in the Taft administration of the Philippines. Phipps is expected to attend the meeting.

Simon David, prominent Jackson merchant, and son-in-law of Mrs. Germain Joseph, N. Scioto-st., is one of the company's promoters.

Portsmouth, it is understood, is regarded as a key city in a tie-up of southern Ohio cities on a line which would run from West Virginia to consumers reportedly already under contract in the northern part of the state.

B. H. Crawford, Circleville R. F. D. 2, was in the Ross-co jail Tuesday to begin serving out a fine of $100 and costs, imposed upon him in Squire Hickey's court in Chillicothe Monday on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Crawford was arrested Sunday afternoon by State Highway Patrolman F. J. Crume. His driving rights were also suspended for six months. Because the car bore license plates issued to another man, the state highway patrol procured a court order to hold the car until an investigation could be made.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The continuation of San Francisco's general strike spread to New York waterfront today.

While steamship owners prepared to go into session to consider the independent demands of New York maritime groups for higher wages and shorter hours, the American Radio Telegraphers union ordered its operators on vessels arriving from the Pacific coast to quit their keys.

Three operators of the Grace liner Santa Paula, fresh from the coast where it was charged, strike breaking longshoremen had handled its cargo, were the first to walk ashore under the strike order.

NEW GAS RATE OFFER TO BE MADE TO CITY

MAYOR HAS NOTICE

Offer Made in Chillicothe Monday Evening

Council at its meeting Wednesday evening will be offered a new gas rate of 45 cents per 1,000 cubic feet by representatives of the Universal Pipe Line Co., of Canton, it was learned today.

Representatives of the company have conferred with Mayor W. B. Cady and will be here tomorrow night to present their proposition to the council.

The new company, according to the mayor, is about ready to make a contract with the city of Portsmouth, where a gas rate of 30 cents per 1,000 cubic feet has been offered.

If its own distributing system is to be used, the mayor said he has been informed, the company will charge a rate of 45 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Since Circleville has no distributing system, it is expected the latter rate will be offered.

NO NEGOTIATING
Circleville at present is paying The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. $1 for the first 500 cubic feet, and 60 cents per 1,000 cu. ft. for all over, or an average rate of 73 cents. City council passed a gas ordinance sometime ago, but when a protest was filed by the Citizens League, the gas company withdrew its offer, which it claimed was lower.

Negotiations between the gas company and city council ceased at that time.

Oils Wear Slugging Togs, Defeat Dairy by 13 to 3

Circleville Oils drove out 20 hits and 33 bases Monday evening and easily defeated the Circle City Dairy, 13-3. Lethargic base running prevented the Oil team from scoring more markers.

Lloyd Leasure started on the hill for the dairymen but was the victim of much of the assault. Maloney took up the duties where Leasure left off and also was hard hit. The longest hit of the game was a home run past the scoreboard in center field by Art Walker. Carl Purcell tallied a tripple, two doubles and a single. Leroy Moore had a tripple and three singles; Walker smacked a home run, tripple and two singles to lead the swatsmiths.

The dairymen counted one run in the sixth inning on solid smashes by Elliott and Butler and added two in the eighth as Strawser doubled over Joe Barnes' head in left and scored as Walker committed two errors on hard balls.

GAVE FOUR HITS

Carl Purcell gave only four hits, one in the second inning, two in the sixth and one in the eighth. He fanned only one batter and walked but one.

Tonight finds the Given Oils meeting the rejuvenated McClarren Meats and Wednesday the Purina Chows will meet the Eshelman Feeds.

Bill Hegde and Ralph Lutz were Monday's umpires, both doing a good job.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

BANQUET PLANNED

THE RECREATION BALL meeting Monday evening attended by five of the eight managers resulted in a bit of legislation that is certain to be approved—Prior to the opening of the season an elimination series was set to be played at the conclusion of the second half; all money in the league treasury at that time was to be divided on a percentage basis among the winners of the elimination series. It seems there was too much stress laid on this series with the first and second halves counting for not enough, so the managers voted to put all money that is in the treasury at the end of the season into a pot to finance a banquet for all managers, players, umpires and other persons who have helped make the league a success.

HELP THE 'KITTY'

The first year ball was played here the Lutheran Brotherhood put on a banquet which proved a real success—it is hoped this year's will be the same kind. There is some money in the treasury now, but not as much as there should be since recreation ball fans have been reluctant to drop the coin into the fedora—even those who could well afford it are "looking out the window" when the hat goes by.

New bags for the three bases have been ordered and should be here by this time.

BEATY NOT USED

AT THE MEETING MONDAY Roy Norris, straw-board manager, disclosed that he did not intend to retain Art Beatty, Darbyville ball player, who played last week; he doesn't have a job for him; neither does Norris intend to keep Rich Smalley, who played in last week's game—Whether Bill Hegde is working is not certain but it is sure that Cum (Ve Vas Robbed) Robinson will not release Hegde unless he does get a job.

Tate McClarren is intending to manage his own team and will use Red Lawhorn, Kaymie Brungs and Carl Thomas, late of the straw-board; Norris is keeping Don Braunon; McClarren is also releasing Gaines Hill.

REVOLTA VICTOR

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 17.—The St. Paul open golf championship for 1934 today belonged to Johnny Revolta, the young Milwaukee pro with the wild and woolly hair.

Revolta gathered in the honors on the 36th green in a sensational playoff with Harry Cooper of Glen Ellyn, Ill., and Ky Laffoon of Denver. Laffoon finished in second place with 143 to Revolta's 142, and in third place was Cooper, with 145.

The young Milwaukee marksman fought a close battle all the way with Laffoon, but went into the lead at the twenty-second hole to stay ahead. Rain had soaked the Keller course.

Laffoon and Revolta started the playoff with sub-par 7's that left Cooper four down to his foes. Revolta posted his second consecutive 71 in the afternoon round, but Laffoon could do no better than a par 72. Cooper's par-wrecking 70 was to no avail.

Milwaukee Is Given All-Star Preference

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 17.—The Columbus Red Birds hoped to do better under the lights tonight than they have done in the last two day's afternoon games.

Bud Teachout was chased off the mound yesterday and the Kansas City Blues won from the Birds 10 to 7. The blues had handed the Columbus club a double pasting the day before.

Tonight's game winds up the series between the two clubs. Tomorrow is an off day for Columbus, when the American Association All-Stars play the Millers at Minneapolis. The Birds, incidentally, were forgotten entirely by the pickers of the All-Star team, as were the Louisville Colonels.

Seven Milwaukee players were selected and five from Kansas City. One each from St. Paul, Indianapolis, and Toledo make up the team.

The Birds start a three-game series at Milwaukee Friday, finishing their current road tour Sunday, Monday, July 23, will be an off day, but on the following day the Flock will be back at its home stadium.

CORNWALL, Ontario, A new international traffic bridge linking Cornwall, Ontario, and Roosevelt town, New York, adds another to the many channels of communication between the United States and Canada. It is the only bridge connecting Canada and the United States between Montreal and Niagara Falls.

Urge City Manager

TOLEDO.—The city manager form of government may soon be tried here.

Support for the movement to establish that type of local control grew recently after the city council had wrangled five hours over salary changes and found that it had accomplished nothing when it was through.

CONCERN PLANS BIG "GOOD WILL" SALE

Cussins & Fearn Offers Savings on Home and Farm Necessities.

As a compliment to their thousands of patrons in this community, the firm of Cussins & Fearn will soon announce what it designates as a "Good-Will Sale." During the continuance of this sale it is understood that many articles of every-day need in the store will be sold at greatly reduced prices, thus giving customers the benefit of substantial savings on necessities for the home, garden, farm, and shop.

"We feel that we owe something to our wide circle of customers for their continued loyalty and patronage," Harold McCord, manager of the local store said.

DEPENDS ON GOOD WILL

"The success of our business," he continued, "depends on the good-will of our customers. But it isn't enough just to thank them or write them letters telling them how much we appreciate their trade. So we thought we would do something that would express our appreciation in a practical way. For that reason, we decided to offer for a limited period our high quality merchandise at greatly reduced prices. And as their good-will is back of this event, we decided to call this our "Good-Will Sale."

"We feel, of course," said Mr. McCord, "that we have always given our customers big values for their money. And they must feel the same way about it, too; or they would not continue to give us so much of their trade. But now we want to give them something extra—not only the values they have been getting in the past, but extra savings besides. We think they're entitled to that at least. And to give them these savings, many prices have been reduced to the point where I do not think I exaggerate when I say that every article in this sale will be a real bargain."

The firm of Cussins & Fearn was established in Columbus more than forty years ago and it has enjoyed a sound and steady growth ever since. According to the management of the concern, this growth has been due to the long established policy of offering only the highest quality of goods at lowest prices.

22 STORES ESTABLISHED As business expanded, and in order to give better service to more people, branch stores were established from time to time. Today there are 22 Cussins & Fearn stores in 18 cities of central Ohio. The local store is one of them. It shares in the benefits of the tremendous buying power of the parent concern and enables it to maintain a price level lower than would otherwise be possible.

Cussins & Fearn has become a real factor in the mercantile life of this community and in the opinion of those who know the store it is a position rightly earned.

The Good-Will sale will be announced in this paper within the next few days. It is suggested that it will be to your interest to watch for this announcement and to take advantage of the savings offered.

"YARD" ARRESTS MAN IN "TORSO" MURDERS

LONDON, July 17.—With the efficiency for which it is world renowned Scotland Yard today picked up Tony Mancini, seaside Romeo, wanted for questioning in connection with the murder of Violet Kaye, dancer and victim of Brighton's trunk murder number two.

Mancini was found early today on Blackheath, the large open space in southeast London. It was Mancini who for the past six weeks had been living in the room in the Barnard's Kemp street rooming house in Brighton with the large trunk which contained the body of the beautiful dancer.

QUESTIONED BEFORE

By one of the strangest coincidences in British criminal annals, Mancini had been arrested and questioned in connection with Brighton's trunk murder number one, the still unidentified female torso found in a trunk in the check room of Brighton's central station on June 17.

Endeavoring to clear up the mystery of the torso in the trunk (the legs later were found in London but the head and arms have not been found) police meticulously investigated all cases of missing women. Violet Kaye, former variety and revue dancer and singer, who had been living in Brighton under the name of Mrs. Violet Watson, was one of the missing women carefully checked on.

Investigation of the case of Violet Kaye led police to take Tony Mancini into custody for questioning as a close friend of the dancer's. However, when they found that the Kaye woman was slim (the torso was that of a heavy woman) they let Mancini go.

IN SAME ROOM

Only a few days later Violet Kaye's body was found in a trunk in the Kemp street rooming house in the very room which had been occupied by Mancini for the past six weeks during all of which time the body evidently was in the trunk.

The presence of brown wrapping paper similar to that in which the torso found in the central station a month before and a bloodstained knife in addition to the hatchet Violet Kaye was slain with, led the police to connect the two cases and to investigate the possibility that the torso had been dismembered in this very room.

According to a show girl, Lia De Korneil, who formerly knew Mancini, he had recently come from the United States. She said that a year ago he had tried to sell her a trunk load of women's clothing including eight expensive evening dresses, saying that he had just come from America and that he wanted to return.

2,600 MORE TROOPS

The 2,000 national guardsmen who have policed the San Francisco waterfront since the fierce riots of July 5 were reinforced by 2,600 state troops who entered the city with tanks, artillery, fixed bayonets and bulging cartridge belts.

At the same time that he ordered the reinforcements here, Acting Governor Frank F. Merriam revealed that all the national guard in California, consisting of 6,400 officers and men, is under arms, the reserves being held at various armories throughout the state.

The federal forces that are ready consist of 1,200 sailors and 200 marines from the cruisers San Francisco and Cincinnati, now at the Mare Island navy yard in San Francisco Bay, and 1,000 troops at the Presidio of San Francisco, mainly the 30th infantry.

Both Rear Admiral V. S. Williams, Mare Island commandant, and Major General Malin Craig, commanding the Ninth Corps area, with headquarters at the Presidio, said the federal services will be called out only if the national guard proves inadequate to control riots or if government property is damaged.

Governor Merriam said he would declare martial law only when requested by official agencies in the strike area.

The possibility of mediation by President Roosevelt's National Laborshoremen's board, arbitration body, faded when the board received notification from the joint marine strike committee that the general strike can only be settled if ship-owners agree to union control of halls in which longshoremen and seamen are hired and if the owners agree to arbitrate all other questions with marine unions.

The break in the paralysis of San Francisco came yesterday in a test run of four street cars on the municipal lines which were sent from the beach on the west side of the city to the ferry building on the east, or bay side, conveyed by police cars and carrying three officers each.

Down Market-st., the city's main thoroughfare which had not seen a single car on its four-track system since the night before, the four cars rumbled while crowds cheered and sighed in relief.

The ovation to the cars indicated the temper of the populace and the municipal carmen were ordered back to work to put all their cars in operation today—an order acknowledged by the strike leaders to save the carmen their civil service standing which they were told would be forfeited if they failed to report today.

Seeking Food Supply

one-third of the city.

The two other street car systems in San Francisco are still strike-bound.

Trucks carrying food supplies were "allowed" past the strikers' picket lines as the strike leaders announced they had no intention of imposing "unnecessary hardships" on the public.

The additional restaurants were given "permits" to open by the general strike committee when it was found yesterday that the 19 then serving food were utterly unable to handle the demands made upon them.

Hungry citizens stood in lines for blocks trying to get an opportunity to appease their sharpened appetites.

The supplies being run in by trucks, guarded by deputy sheriffs and police, will be made available to eager housewives at warehouses and wholesale commission houses. And the housewives will be glad to replenish their shelves, dangerously close to the point of barrenness.

However, the city's theaters still were dark and retail stores reported their stocks very low because of the strike of teamsters who haul stocks to the retail merchants.

Gov. Merriam, in a radio address, warned the strikers that he will act with the "utmost vigor and decision" if they put the hunger blockades back or become riotous.

NEWARK, N. J., July 17.—United States Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York was speeding westward by air today to act as the special emissary of President Roosevelt in the efforts to end the disastrous general strike in San Francisco.

The senator took off from Newark airport in a special plane shortly before last midnight.

He will head directly for Portland, Ore., where he hopes to prevent a general strike similar to that now prevailing in San Francisco. He will go to San Francisco from Portland.

Another resolution, also forwarded to the state relief commission, asks the state officials for authority to pay unpaid bills for CWA projects amounting to $4,512.23. These bills will be paid out of the selective sales tax fund.

The state relief commission is expected to take action on all three of the resolutions at one of its meetings this week.

The new relief administrative set-up in the county will be completed as soon as a clerk has been named for the office of the county director, it was said today.

IRWIN ON JURY

Howard S. Irwin, the new director, was sitting as a member of the grand jury Tuesday and had not yet announced his appointment for the position. Mrs. Clara Southward, W. Frankland, has been approved for the job of investigator. She will be assisted by the township trustees in the rural sections.

2 SUSPECTS HELD

HARTSDALE, N. Y., July 17.—A new and widespread hunt for Bobby Connor, missing 21-month-old child, was instituted today following the questioning of two men by investigators.

State and local police, federal investigators and Bay Scouts took part in another extensive combing of the underbrush near the Connor home where the lot was seen a short time before his disappearance Thursday.

One of the men questioned described himself as Harry Lee Forrester, 51, an itinerant peddler, who was identified as the man seen near the Connor home shortly before the child's absence was noted.

The police declined to reveal the identity of the other man questioned.

FINE SUSPENDED

Weldon Adams, Pike-co., was fined $5 and costs, both of which were suspended by Mayor W. B. Cady Tuesday, when he appeared on a charge of intoxication. Adams was arrested Monday at 9:15 p. m. by Officer Fred Fitzpatrick.

Starting to Reap the Harvest

"THE LONE WOLF'S SON"

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

CHAPTER XXVI

From the threshold came a response of false diffidence: "Acting for the Captain at his request, and with your permission, madame, messieurs."

It was Plon who introduced himself. The shallow features of the Frenchman worked in spite of every effort to control them; glee flashed on them like phosphorescence as he lent attention to the Rajah's grievances—from which, he was sure, an indictment of Lanyard for card-sharpping was not omitted. Before it was finished, Plon was giving his lean and hairy hands a nice dry wash.

"Yes," he kept interjecting in the croak of a hawk hovering above a helpless prey, "yes, yes. . . And very gratifying," he pronounced at the conclusion, with a smack of dry lips like the snap of a beak, "very! By what appears, monsieur,"—his sharp small eyes sprayed Lanyard with their spleen,—"you did not take me seriously when I advised you to keep out of mischief for the remainder of this voyage."

"Don't thank me, monsieur," Lanyard politely insisted; "thank His Highness, rather, and his collaborators in the staging of this scene for your delight."

"Oh, as for that," Plon in all candor owned, "I confess I shan't be sorry to see you put out of harm's way till we sight Cherbourg again."

"How is that, 'out of harm's way'?"

"Under lock and key, monsieur, will be at least a cure from the persecution which he alleges every time one finds him involved in some new scandal."

"But note that I am still at large, and of no mind to be otherwise."

"Do not deceive yourself; you are as good as under arrest already. Did I not serve notice on you last night that the Captain was at the end of his patience and would give another time give you the benefit of the doubt?"

"One is unaware of having ever asked for any."

"It has none the less stood you twice in good stead since you left France. I am afraid you will regret this time, having forfeited the right to claim it."

"Even though it be proved I am unjustly accused?"

"Even in that improbable contingency, monsieur—unless, naturally, you are prepared to clear yourself by pointing out the guilty person."

"Many thanks for the compliment, but that is work for a fixed rival the great Plon's. I can only say, for whatever it may be worth to you, it is my conviction that a proper search will bring the ring to light—a search, understand me, not only of these rooms, but of every body in them, to which I for one will gracefully submit, only on condition that my host himself is equally compliant."

"Mr. Isquith was right," the Rajah disdainfully commented; "the fellow is plainly out of his mind. On second thought, I shall be happy to spare Madame Boyce all embarrassment, provided she will give me her word that the ruby is not in her possession."

"It will have to be overpowering, I promise; and you must be prepared for every remedy at command of a French citizen whose legal rights have been violated on what is technically French soil."

After an instant Plon with a grimace of distaste conceded: "There is that, to be sure!"—and looked to the others as if for prompting.

"What!" Isquith obliged in faint impatience. "Do you mean to say you, an officer of the law, can hesitate in a case like this, when the suspect is a notorious criminal?"

"Is?" the agent of the Sureté demurred. "But the difficulty is just there, monsieur; we can't say 'is,' at all events not yet; we can only say 'was' till the contrary is shown beyond dispute. The record of monsieur's early years is against him, I grant you; yet it is true that, even then, the best minds of the Prefecture labored in vain to lay the Lone Wolf by the heels; the crimes accredited to him were an old wives' tale before we were sure that he and M. Michael Lanyard were one man and the same; and if we have kept close watch on him ever since, it has been love's labor lost; there is not a single shady page that one can point to in his post-war dossier."

"For my part I am incurably skeptical of all such informations; I admit I would be glad to hale the Lone Wolf back to France a prisoner—that would be a rare feather in my cap! It is none the less true that never till I met him on this vessel have I had any excuse for holding M. Lanyard's conduct questionable; and even now—"

Plon had a shrug. "To sum it all up," the Rajah fumed, "you take his part?"

"Your Highness does me injustice. But when M. Lanyard protests his readiness to be searched, provided only that all others concerned will submit to the same formality—that, I confess, seems not unreasonable to me."

"But my dear sir!" Isquith expostulated. "It's all bluff—can't you see that? The fellow's simply sparring for time. Don't you suppose he knows the Rajah of Ladore couldn't possibly swallow such insubstantial terms, couldn't possibly consent to put himself, not to mention his guests, on a footing with a felon? Far from being reasonable, the man's attitude is preposterous."

"The more sincere you sound, monsieur," Lanyard advised him, "the more satisfied I am that I should like to see you searched."

"Particularly you?"

"Not that I would mind. But aren't you rather invalidating your gesture of conscious innocence when you exempt by implication Mrs. Boyce and His Highness?"

"Monsieur goes too fast. I have not offered to exempt them. To my mind, indeed, it grows clearer every minute that they are as deep in the head?"

"This goes beyond all toleration!" the Rajah exploded. "Really, M. Plon—"

"Half a minute, Your Highness," Lanyard with perfect calm interposed. "I have a word to say. On second thought, I shall be happy to spare Madame Boyce all embarrassment, provided she will give me her word that the ruby is not in her possession."

"Hello!" Isquith sneered. "Why the sudden rush of civility to the head?"

"You wouldn't understand. And it really doesn't matter," Lanyard

indifferently declared. "Frankly, I am bored to find myself resenting this child's play with childishness. I withdraw my stipulation. After all, I only made it for a purpose, if any one of you actually believed I had stolen the ring, he would have snapped up my offer, conceiving me to be the only one who could suffer."

Here Lanyard, tendering a not unfriendly nod to the confused eyes which he viewed in the woman's face of heightened color, got up. "For myself, I don't care, really, who made away with the ruby; all I am concerned about is to enjoy this good policeman's disappointment."

He unbuckled his coat and spread his arms. "There, M. Plon: do your damndest—I should say your duty as you see it: go through the motions of a conscientious sleuth discharging the functions of his office."

His peroration covered a stir of astonishment, amusing enough, it contemplated when one had anticipated it; but he hadn't finished before Plon, with a little purring snarl, was taking full advantage of his permission—his hand expertly rummaging Lanyard's pockets and testing his garments for less obvious places of concealment.

"Nothing!" he announced in disgust, falling back and looking at the Rajah. "The man has nothing on his person that he has not a right to."

"Impossible!" The Rajah's countenance was all at once darkly congested, the look he turned involuntarily to Isquith was black with illegible emotion. "He must have it—I could swear I saw him—"

"A trifle late with that claim, aren't you?" Lanyard acidly inquired. "Why didn't you make it to begin with, instead of leading our good Plon to believe there was at least something remotely resembling a question? I don't call that kind of you!"

"Keep a civil tongue in your head, sir!"

"Oddly enough, I find myself sensible of any obligation to be respectful to Your Highness."

"But there is nothing!" Plon insisted, even while he continued obediently to make perfunctory dabs at Lanyard's garments. "I assure Your Highness, I know. . . Short of stripping the man—unless, of course, he has swallowed it."

"Don't talk like a donkey," Isquith recommended in recurrent weariness. "Of course the fellow hasn't got the ring on him. I could have told you in the first place you would never find it, searching him."

"Where, then?"

"Heaven knows where the person has hidden it by this time—wherever it was that he left the room to speak to just before we missed the ruby."

"Person? What person?" The eyes of the Frenchman were quick with fresh suspicion. "Who was this person, monsieur?"

"My son."

"Ah!" Isquith sagely nodded. "The young hopeful. Papa's little help."

"How sharp he is!" Lanyard addressed his remarks of mucking and miration to Plon: "Positively a need! Really, there's no keeping anything from such penetration. Who else would have seen through the plot that brought my boy to the door to receive the plunder the very first instant after I had fled it. Did I say a need? I should have said a pinhead."

MOVIES

AT THE GRAND

Ralph Harold, who a year or two ago was "top heavy" on the Warner lot, has come back home. For the first time in many months he is once more playing a role at the studios in "Jimmy the Gent," now showing at the Grand Theatre, with Jimmy Cagney in the stellar role. At one time Ralph could be expected to provide the menace in almost any Warner Bros. production. Some of the pictures in which he sneered, glowered and threatened were "Alexander Hamilton," with George Arliss; "The Ruling Voice," "The Star Witness," "Stranger in Town," "Safe in Hell," "Night Nurse" and "Smart Money."

AT THE CLIFTONA

One of the funniest plays in the history of the modern theatre, often called a "classic in laughs," comes to the Cliftona Theatre. It is "The Show-Off," starring Spencer Tracy with Madge Evans at the head of a notable cast. From the evening of its first production on the stage of the Playhouse, New York, "The Show-Off" was a smash hit. It broke attendance records during its New York showing, and since has been played in virtually every city in America. The playwright was George Kelly, to whom the play is said to have netted a fortune. The story deals with the complications that arise in the life of a young man who talks too much. He brags of his social position, his motor cars and his estates, none of which he has. He tells the president of his company how to run the concern and talks himself out of a job.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND
By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

There was little success. On the third week-end, the Navy Secretary tried it for a half hour. In disgust, he spat the afternoon reading, went to his stateroom shortly after dinner. In his place he left faithful secretary Archibald Odin. He fished all night, all the next morning until time to depart. All along Chesapeake Bay were being reported record catches. But when the Sequoia lifted anchor to return to Washington, the Navy's fishing lines were still baited. Note: The fishing jinx on the Sequoia is a very snooty one. It only operates when high officials are aboard. If others not with small fry, a cabinet officer, or the Chief Executive can't catch a minnow, but once they step ashore, things change. A dozen times this season, when the boat was anchoring in the Bay during the week, with only the officers and crew aboard, large catches have been made. LOST 20 LBS. OF FAT IN JUST 4 WEEKS
Mrs. Mae Weston of St. Louis, Mo. writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment. Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast. It's the SAFEST, HARMLESS way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know. For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drugstore—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back."

Run Around Is a Painful Infection
Is Usually Found at Tip of Finger; May Cause a Deformity

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

NEGLECT of the finger nails or the skin of the fingers often leads to severe and disabling infection. A simple hang-nail is a common finger annoyance and may be the seat of a serious infection. When the hang-nail is neglected or irritated, there will be a break of the skin which permits the entrance of germs. "A run-around," or "run around," as it is more commonly called, is a common infection found at the edge or root of the nail.

caused by neglect of simple sanitation in that region. As a rule, this condition is associated with improper care of the hands and fingers. Once the germs have entered the skin and come in contact with the tissues surrounding the nail, an abscess forms. The victim is first aware of this infection by a throbbing sensation and painful swelling at the corner of the finger nail. The nail becomes dark and raised on its edge. As a rule it is extremely painful and disabling.

Home Remedies Ineffective
Since the abscess burrows its way under the nail, relief can only be obtained by a small incision. This permits the pus to drain out and gives the finger a chance to heal. Too often the victim of this discomfort resorts to home remedies. This treatment may give relief from pain but rarely a cure. The infection usually recurs and the condition is then spoken of as "chronic paronychia." Ordinarily this leads to a marked deformity of the infected finger nail. It is a disagreeable deformity and for an individual whose work requires careful use of the fingers it is indeed annoying. I cannot overemphasize the importance of prompt and careful attention to infections and abrasions of the hands. Neglect of a simple scratch or injury may lead to a severe blood infection. I know of many cases where fingers have been sacrificed and even hands amputated because of neglect of a trivial pin prick or simple infection.

Danger of Blood Poisoning
When infections of the finger are neglected and pus is present, the infection may spread up the arm and the poisonous substance becomes absorbed in the blood stream. When this occurs septicemia or blood poisoning may follow. This is a dreaded and serious complication. Whenever an injury of the finger or hand occurs a suitable antiseptic should be applied immediately. If the injury has been produced by a rusted nail or dirty object, it is best to consult a physician. In such instances it is advisable to receive a "tetanus antitoxin" injection. This will prevent lockjaw. Never ignore an injury to the finger, regardless of how trivial it may appear to you. Throbbing or painful swelling is a sign that must not be ignored. Delay in obtaining the necessary treatment may mean extensive operation and disfiguring scars.

PWA Plan Long Urged by Briton

Back of the huge sums congress voted President Roosevelt to spend as "he saw fit" to push forward the public works administration projects looms the figure of John Maynard Keynes, noted British economist, who for decades has pleaded for a large public works expenditure fund as a means of pulling nations out of depression doldrums. Keynes recently talked for several hours at the White House with apparent effect inasmuch as the chief executive immediately asked for increased PWA appropriations. The influential British scholar accurately foretold the world crisis after the "disastrous" Versailles treaty in 1919, and withdrew from the peace conference in protest against its "injustices"

Salad—The Mainstay of Summer Meals

What's the most important dish on the summer menu? If you are very, very young you probably will say, "Ice cream!" with a lusty shout. We won't argue with you about it, but I'm sure you will agree with me that a salad, crisply cold, can be very inviting on a hot day.

Here are some salads you may not have made before. Any of them can take a popular place on the menu—with a bow.

Tomato Piquante Salad

6 medium sized tomatoes
1 Tbsp. chopped parsley
1/2 lb. American cheese, or
4 hard cooked eggs, sliced

Scald the tomatoes to loosen the skins and peel. Chill in the refrigerator. Make 4 parallel cuts in each tomato from the top almost to the bottom, being careful not to sever the sections. In the cuts thus made, insert very thin slices of cheese or egg. Arrange on crisp lettuce leaves and sprinkle with parsley. Serve with mayonnaise to which mustard, Worcestershire sauce and onion have been added to taste.

Summer Salad

6 firm tomatoes 2 C. shredded cabbage
1/2 C. cooked string beans 1/2 C. cooked peas
1/2 C. diced celery French dressing

Wash tomatoes; remove stem end and scoop out part of the pulp. Mix the remaining ingredients and fill tomatoes. Chill thoroughly and serve on crisp lettuce. Serves 6.

Tuna Fish Salad

2 C. flaked tuna fish
1 C. celery, cut in pieces
1 C. diced apple
2 Tbsp. capers
1 1/2 Tbsp. chopped pimiento
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. paprika
1 egg, hard cooked

Combine fish, celery, 1 Tbsp. capers and seasoning. Marinate and chill. Just before serving, mix with mayonnaise. Serve in lettuce cups. Top with mayonnaise and garnish with remaining capers and slices of egg.

Any of these salads that are used for the main course of a meal are more substantial and may be more elaborate, too. One of these salads served with biscuits, muffins or rolls is a whole meal in itself.

When you come to the end of a perfect meal, the proper dessert salad will bring praise from your guests. Fruits are suggested for the dessert salad. Bananas, dates, figs, grapefruit, grapes, peaches, pears, pineapple and oranges—served alone or in combination, or stuffed with nuts or cheese—wins approval. The fruits are good, too, in an aspic made of ginger ale or fruit juice, or frozen in a dressing of cream cheese and mayonnaise.

Cheese and Apple Salad

1 pkg. lemon gelatin
1 pt. boiling water
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 red apple, diced
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
1 pkg. cream cheese
1/2 C. walnut meats

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water, add 1 Tbsp. lemon juice and salt. Chill. Combine apples, sugar, salt and remaining lemon juice. When slightly thickened, add apples to half of gelatin mixture. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Beat the rest of the gelatin until fluffy and thick like whipped cream. Fold in cheese and nuts. Pour over firm, first layer. Serve in squares on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise.

FERA PROGRAM TO AID 1,000 AT OHIO STATE

Continuation of Part-Time Employment For Deserving Boys, Girls Learned.

COLUMBUS, July 17.—Continuation of the Federal Emergency Relief administration part-time employment program for college students will help 1,000 deserving Ohio boys and girls to attend Ohio State university next year, according to President George W. Rightmire.

Students of good character and scholarship who could not otherwise attend Ohio State for financial reasons will be given employment in campus offices, enabling them to earn approximately $15 per month toward their university expenses. The plan will be similar to that which prevailed during the spring months, when 933 Ohio State students were given assistance.

WRITE TO STRADLEY

Pickaway-co young people desiring to take advantage of this opportunity are invited to send their applications to B. L. Stradley, university examiner. Both new and advanced students are eligible. During the spring months students from more than 60 counties were helped to attend Ohio State under the federal aid plan, according to Mr. Stradley.

Several months ago President Rightmire wrote Harry L. Hopkins, FERA administrator, urging that the assistance for students be continued next year. He pointed out that, in spite of business improvements, "it is evident that educational opportunity is denied to thousands of young people whose capabilities, character, high school record, and ambitions all point unmistakably to the social need as well as the personal necessity and advantage of being in college."

Hopkins gave authority last week for the student-employment project to be continued during the new school year starting Oct. 2, at Ohio State.
